A seminar organised by the focus group Solid Dosage Forms

Objectives

Tablets are the most important and most common form of medicine worldwide. In the past few years scientific knowledge has emerged, especially in the field of tableting, which allows us to turn from the „art of tableting“ to a knowledge-based development and production of tablets. On this basis the participants will be offered the basics of formulation development and the production of tablets.

In small groups the internship is conducted under the supervision of experienced instructors on various production presses. Each participant will actively participate in trials for the production of tablets and various methods for their characterization. On the basis of selected examples, typical approaches and solutions are shown, which are subsequently discussed in detail. Modelling approaches for different production presses will be presented.

At the end of the course, the participants should have basic knowledge about the solution of tableting tasks. The focus is on the natural sciences and engineering aspects of tableting. Regulatory aspects, such as cleaning or validation are not dealt with.

Dedicated lectures dealing with:

- Formulations
- Mechanical properties
- Compression and compaction theory
- Process induced transformations
- Excipients
- Data acquisition
- Compaction simulators
- Predictability of tablet properties
- Technical concepts of tablet presses

Committee

Programme

Tuesday, 24 September 2024

9:00-18:00 h

Welcome and house keeping

Markus Thommes, Technical University Dortmund, Germany

Peter Kleinebudde, Emeritus professor, Heinrich Heine University Düsseldorf, Germany

Description and prediction of powder compaction properties

Göran Alderbon, University of Uppsala

Tablet Compression Characterisation (2.9.55.)

Pierre Tchoreloff, University of Bordeaux

Practical course formulation 1

Scale Up of tablet presses

Jan Henrik Finke, TU Braunschweig

Introduction in continuous tableting

Ossi Korhonen, University of Eastern Finland

Multi Tip-tooling - Power to precision

speaker tbc

Bi-layer compression - a cakewalk or passing fancy?!

Damir Zecevic, Abbvie, Ludwigshafen, Germany

Practical course formulation 2

Networking dinner

Programme

Wednesday, 25 September 2024

9:00-18:00 h

Practical course formulation 3

Powder compaction models

Arno Kwade, TU Braunschweig

Linking Particle and compact properties to tablet performance

speaker tbc

Short presentations of machine suppliers

Short presentations of excipient suppliers

Challenges in modern pharmaceutical tableting

Kendal Pitt, De Montfort University

Evaluation of practical course

Peter Kleinebudde, Emeritus professor, Heinrich Heine University Düsseldorf, Germany

Programme subjected to be changed.
